

Creating Right and Left Grand get out material usually involves some reverse engineering. An idea like, Girls Go Right, Boys Go Left to a Right and Left Grand can be developed with this process. By using checkers, one can set up an arrangement with the proper sequence for the Right and Left Grand to take place then back track the checkers through calls that will lead to a recognizable station, such as Partner Lines, Corner Boxes, Right Hand Lady Boxes, Opposite Lady Lines etc. It is best to find the shortest way to a recognizable station in order to remember and visually see where to use the get out. In the example provided, in order to achieve a Right and Left Grand the dancers must be in a Completed Double Pass Thru formation and would be required to either know Double Pass Thru or Tag the Line to accomplish the get out. At this point, divide the column in half to see what you have on each side single file. Notice you have girls as leaders and boys as trailers. The arrangement of these dancers closely resembles some form of Corner Box. So working from a Corner Box, set the dancers up to create the Single Column with the girls in the lead. As a result of this analysis here are some possible get outs.
